

What I have done since the last report:

I haven't made any significant changes to my project since my last report since I was home for spring break last week and I am away at a conference this week.

What I still need to do:

I need to continue working on my UI to improve the gameplay scene and the menus.
I still want to test a new configurations of rewards and penalties for my agents.
I am also continuing to look into a platform that would let me host my web app.
